COTTAGE TO CASTLE FORCED TO CEASE INSPECTING DUE TO INSURANCE

Lack of industry insurance options forces local, established business to cease offering home inspection services

[Moncton, NB, September 2022] Moncton-based Home Inspection company, Cottage to Castle have been forced to cease home inspection operations permanently due to insurance non-renewal.

The industry appears to be suffering from a lack of suitable insurance carriers, with very few options nationwide. Due to apparent changes with this carrier, Cottage to Castle were unable to renew their insurance despite the efforts of their broker. Without insurance coverage, we have no choice but to cease offering home inspections immediately with the owners unable to work in the role moving forward.

Cottage to Castle, headed up by Certified Master Inspector and experienced former realtor Jeff LeBlanc, has performed close to 8,500 inspections for real estate purchasers in Southeast NB since 2014.

They were one of the largest home inspection companies in Canada and were possibly the largest in Atlantic Canada (Unverified). Their absence will create a largescale void in the Moncton real estate market that will be felt by homebuyers and realtors alike.

The crux of this issue is on a national level – a lack of options in the home inspection insurance market that allows home inspection professionals like Jeff LeBlanc and Cottage to Castle little to no room to maneuver.
